

WORKBOOK 07 LESSON 08

FILL IN THE BLANKS WITH THE CORRECT PREPOSITIONS: TO, WITH, ABOUT, ON, IN, OF, FOR, BEFORE, WITHOUT, INSIDE, AFTER.

One day God made the man, with a heart, so that he could love. He also decided to give the man two legs to walk on, so that he could look after the ones he loved. He gave the man a head, with a brain inside, and this brain was supposed to help the man think about the things he and the ones he loved would need, and with this brain he could find ways to acquire everything for himself and others.

Well, God decided to give man a mouth and a voice so that he could use his brain to say nice things to other men, and so he could teach what other men didn't know yet. And finally he gave the man a woman, that also had a heart to love and feel, legs to walk on, and a brain to think about all one needed to live in peace and for a life worthwhile living.

Before he gave the man and the woman a place to live, he showed his love for them, so that they could learn how to love the others in the same way. And he told them that they should love each other and everyone that they would come to know, and he said, "when you return, I'll be waiting for you."

So the man and the woman left for the place God gave them. And God gave them many friends and animals. With his brain, the man built a house, and lived in it with his wife that he loved with the heart God gave him.

His friend decided to also make a house, but he made a bigger one. So the man walked to the forest with (on) the legs that God gave him and brought more wood to make a bigger house than his neighbor's, and said, "now I have a bigger house than yours." And the woman God gave him got angry because he didn't think about the children that needed food, because he was building a bigger house. And all the other men also went to the forest to make a bigger house, and bigger and bigger houses.

And one day the forest died, and the animals went away, and the men and their families had nothing else to eat. And he cried with the voice God gave him, and with his heart he felt pain, and he couldn't walk with (on) his legs, and his brain couldn't think about anything because he was hungry. And his wife felt sorry for him, because she loved him and helped him think of something to do. But she needed help, and she asked the other men that were all in the same situation for help. And they all thought together and loved one another for the help they gave one another, and they finally felt the love God had for them, and planted a new forest, and the animals came back and loved the men for planting a new forest for them, and they ate again and were able to use their brains again, and each man decided to take animals home.

But some wanted more than others, and they ate all the animals, and one more built big houses, and the forest died once again. And the men became angry, then hungry, then sad, and lonely in their beautiful houses, because they didn't have anyone to talk with their lonely voices about love.

So finally the men returned to God, with their legs and their brains, but no heart, because they had forgotten how to love and they couldn't feel God's love, because they didn't have hearts. So they died.

Junko: Hello, Junko Mori speaking. How can I help you?

Andrea: Hi, Junko, it's Andrea here from Red Band. I'm calling about our latest order.

Junko: Everything arrived OK, right? We got the delivery confirmation at our end.

Andrea: Yes, everything's fine with the order. I'm calling about the invoice and the payment terms. I need a favour.

Junko: A favour? What do you need?

Andrea: This is a little, er ... difficult, but I need an extension on the payment terms. I know they're usually 30 days, but we're having some cash flow problems. You'd really be helping us out if you could extend it to 60 days.

Junko: I'm not sure if I can do that, Andrea. We've got regulations at our end, and also have to manage our own cash flow.

Andrea: I promise this won't become the norm, Junko. Actually, I also want to place another new order. The same size order as last time. It's for an important customer and they pay on delivery.

Junko: I see. So your cash flow problem will be solved after this new order is delivered.

Andrea: Exactly.

Junko: That's good. Hold on, Andrea. Let me see what I can do. Yes, I think we can make an exception this time.

Andrea: That's great, Junko. I appreciate your help.

Junko: And we appreciate your business, Andrea. It works both ways.

Andrea: Thanks again, Junko. Can you send me a quick email confirmation of the payment terms extension?

Junko: Sure, no problem. We're happy to help you.

Andrea: Great. And I'll email you the new order.

Junko: Thanks. I'll keep an eye out for it. Talk to you soon.

Andrea: You too. Goodbye.
