LISTENING:

CANDY'S BIRTHDAY

Candy wanted her mother to give her a big birthday party. She also wanted to invite her boyfriend David and many other friends. Candy wanted to go to the supermarket to buy things to eat and drink, but her mother preferred to make everything at home. They only bought Coke and vanilla and strawberry ice cream. They didn't buy chocolate ice cream because Candy doesn't like it.

Everything is on the table now: a beautiful big cake, a lot of candies, sandwiches, ice cream, lemonade, Coke, silverware, napkins and – the camera Candy wanted so much.

David is there and all of her friends sing "Happy Birthday to you" and one of her friends plays it on the guitar. A yellow butterfly comes in because the window is open. It sits on the Coke bottle between Candy and David. And Candy thinks, "I want to have a birthday twice or three times a year, or more!".
