LISTENING:

DIFFERENT BIRTHDAY

Emily's husband had a crazy way of giving her presents. It was her birthday, and he didn't give her any present. Apparently, He asked her to see what time it was. She looked at her watch and told him it was two-thirty. He said "great" and asked her to give him a milkshake. So she went to the kitchen. She needed a blender for that. The blender had a message in it, "Don't forget the napkin". She thought that was weird, but walked to the dining room to bring her husband the napkin. On the napkin, another message, "If you love me go to the garage now. Be quick!" So Emily went to the garage, and there she saw another car, a beautiful car, their second car, just the car she wanted. On the car, still another message, "This car is, of course, for you. I love you. I love you very much. Thank you so much for loving me".
